DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1 and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Nakajima et al.

Nakajima et al. teaches the claimed invention, including an air box having an air inlet 60 positioned on an upper surface 45. The air box is mounted to the rear of the engine and above a shaft coupler. Such a coupling is clearly shown, but not referenced. The air box draws its air from within the engine compartment. The “body” inherently supports the box, as it supports the engine, and a flexible conduit 67 connects the box and engine.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2,3 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakajima et al.

Re claim 2, the operating cycle of the engine is considered to have been an obvious design expedient.

5. Claims 4 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakajima et al. as applied to claim 2 above, and further in view of Hattori.

Nakajima et al. fails to disclose a storage box.

Hattori teaches same.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide Nakajima et al. with a seat and storage box arrangement as that taught by Hattori.

Such a combination would have been desirable at the time of the invention so as to provide for storage of personal items of the operator.

6. Claims 5 and 12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
